“In Memoriam”

JOSHUA A. LANE

Hand that welcomed, voice that cheered,
Hath passed beyond life's border line;
Yet living still by word and deed
Which will abide the lapse of time.

We know that those most truly live
Whose deeds, throughout the march of years,
Stand forth to labor and to give,
Nor be dismayed by doubts or fears.

Oh, friend, with gratitude we pray
That Memory may with us abide,
As through life's devious paths we stray—
Be just and true whate'er betide.

While Faith, still, with unclouded eye
Will pierce the darkest realms of space,
And by her watch-fires burning high,
The Hand of God we humbly trace.

LAURA A. NORRIS
